Kidney recipient

are YOU registered to be an organ/tissue donor **?

Tiffany Sago Gray was diagnosed with juvenile diabetes at age 17 when she tried to donate blood to her mother, who was in a coma due to uncontrolled high blood pressure and diabetes. Damage to Tiffany's organs and eyes had already occurred, but it wasn't until years later when she was pregnant that she went on dialysis. Against the odds, her baby survived. Tiffany spent the long hours on dialysis studying for her master's and doctorate degrees in Education. She waited four years before a kidney was found. Tiffany is now busy raising her 5-year-old daughter and working in her community.

Please join the Organ/Tissue Donor Registry today.
